DEDICATION

We, the Annual Staff of 1952, dedicate this year-book to the one of our senior class who will not graduate with her classmates--the girl who for over a year has waged and won a difficult battle with an insidious enemy, polio.

In admiration of her arduous struggle and valiant victory, we dedicate the 1952 Echo to JoAnn Freeland, with the fervent hope that soon she will once again be "tripping the light fantastic" with her loyal classmates.

The Pep Assembly

Once again the Vassar High graduates headed homeward toward the old Alma Mater, for the annual Homecoming celebration and football game. The festivities began Friday afternoon with a gala parade through town by the band and entire student body, plus a float from each of the upper classes. Hundreds of townspeople lined the street on the line of march to cheer the cavorting students.

In the evening, the Vassar Vulcans tangled with the Sebewaing Indians and came out decidedly victorious to the tune of a spectacular 40-0 score. Halftime festivities featured the crowning of Queen Mercy Revesz and a pleasing exhibition of precision marching and formations on the part of the band.

The evening celebration was brought to a perfect end by a Student Association dance in the school, at which Queen Mercy Revesz and King Gordon Bauer were again honored.

Library Staff

This group of girls is in charge of keeping track of the many books, magazines, and encyclopedias in the library. This year their work was made immeasurably easier by the redesigning of the study hall, which added stacks of extra bookshelves, a very handy counter from which to dispense the reading material. Still further improvements are in progress, and when these are completed we can be justly proud of the appearance and efficiency of our school library.
