Alexis Gronowski is a very strong young woman, mentally and physically. What she lacks in height, she exceeds with determination, heart and perseverance. She is truly an outstanding individual and a true inspiration to all. Her accomplishments as a world-level competitor in powerlifting will surely be remembered for years to come.

Girls' Varsity Basketball

The quote our team lived by was "play like you're in first, train like you're in second." We worked hard every day at practice and when it came time for the game we put our hearts into it. While we may not have won as many games as we'd like, we played as a team and loved every second on the court. That's what counts the most. - Macy Zwerk

The students that are involved in the National Honor Society group must be exceptional students in their academics and in their community. The students shown on these two pages had to do thirty hours of community service and keep their GPA at a 3.2 or higher. The majority of these stellar students have a GPA exceptionally higher than the required amount. Each of the students had to work very hard to get accepted into this very enlightening group that teaches them character, leadership, service, and scholarship.

Starry Night April 25, 2015

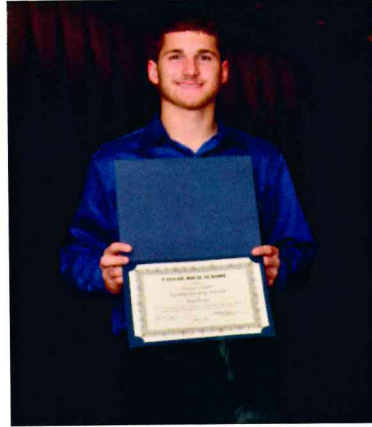

The theme of prom was a starry night. Everyone looked elegant and danced the night away. The music and food were awesome. Everyone said they had a great time and prom will be a great memory. Class polls were given out to the seniors. Jenna Leveille and Thomas Collison were crowned prom Princess and Prince. Michael Pratt and Madison Candela were crowned prom Queen and King.
